

Photovoltaic panels are out of luck

Photovoltaic panels are out of luck

US residential solar on the brink of collapse

The latest draft of the bill is broadly negative for clean energy, but it is particularly damaging to residential solar, cutting federal tax credits far sooner than expected.

California has a huge solar power problem. A fix is coming.

Wind turbines operate side by side with solar panels near Palm Springs, Calif., on March 6, 2024. The state has built vast renewable-power resources, but has to regularly shut down

US Solar Policy Backlash: How Political Shifts and Utility Practices

The discussion among technology and energy communities reveals deep frustration with the current state of American solar policy. Many see the situation as symptomatic of broader issues in US

The Rooftop Solar Industry Could Be on the Verge of Collapse

Some of the nation's biggest public solar companies are struggling to stay afloat as questions arise over the viability of the financial products they sold to both consumers and investors

Why Big Solar Companies Are Failing-and What It Means

They're not going out of business because solar panels aren't a good product-they're doing so because they've heavily relied on subsidies and third-party financing, which leads to

Without Subsidies, U.S. Solar Energy Must Shine On Its Own Merits

A lack of federal support has caused many to declare that renewables as a source of energy in the United States are on the decline.

The residential solar market: Down, not out , McKinsey

Residential solar might be down today, but its long-term prospects remain solid. We see that residential solar is poised for steady growth, especially for companies that take the right steps

Trump Administration Is Delaying Hundreds of Wind and Solar

More than 60 large wind and solar farms under development on federal lands, such as Jackalope Wind, are being stymied. But the administration is also holding up hundreds of wind and

Solar Power's Future in the U.S. May Be in Jeopardy

The Energy Information Administration, in its Short-Term Energy Outlook, is predicting a slowdown in the deployment of solar capacity in the United States, even before the Trump

The Rooftop Solar Industry Is Struggling, but It Isn't Collapsing

Is now a bad time to buy solar panels? It might be a bit of a slow period for the solar industry, but that doesn't mean you should delay a solar installation on your own home.

Contact Us

For catalog requests, pricing, or partnerships, please visit:
<https://www.bartstudio.biz>